

Workshop: „Getting inside by theatre improvisations”

Trainer: Dr. Jozsef Parádi, trainer, Hungary

Unfortunately this workshop did not take place at the Academy because there were too less interested participants. Anyway, here are some infos about it.

Workshop content/theme

Playback theatre is a form of improvisation theater, in which the audience or a group members tell stories from their life and which them enacted on the stage. It is used in classrooms, theater, social and medical settings. Listening to each others stories brings people closer to each other, an makes them raelise their common humanity

Aims

Get closer to ourselves and to each other in a playful way....

Methods

Teaching the basics of the playback theatre.

Further tips, sources, resource material or links

www.playbacknet.org www.playbackschool.org

Jo Salas: Improvising the real life. Jonathan Fox: Act of Service. Truistala Publ, Co,